“Atomic Diversity”

Some people are calling this opportunity for charge diversity here in Decatur, IL, The New Nucleus Plan, or “Atomic Diversity.” They call it “Atomic diversity” because like the nucleus of an atom needs balanced positive and negative charges (protons and neutrons) to survive, a community needs balanced positive and negative charges to survive. Atomic Diversity will make struggling communities brand new. But what exactly is it? We’ll find out after a little background about nonprofit organizations.

Experience shows that some organizations tend over time to become incompatible with other organizations. At worse, they may even resist compatibility. A wall that many people have felt when they’ve been rejected just for trying to help. This hurts charitable organizations the most because their interests are not meant to be isolating and self-absorbed, but to include and help people.

For example, when a member of Clean Law™ tried to file for nonprofit status with the state, he questioned it because the statutory “director” mold, from his experience, excludes people who become positionally challenged and not created equal. Within an organization, this can become counter-productive to charitable activities and most productive towards director activities.

The old mold has been known to tear organizations apart. Ironically, his state representative’s representative rejected a new initiative to modify the state statute so that positionally challenged people could be created equal. Clean Law™ was excluded from its own work of helping challenged people.

This closed door sealed shut led to a plan to blow open the doors of diversity for a brighter future! A plan for an information hub was born to share information between nonprofit organizations. And with it comes the opportunity for Atomic Diversity.

Students at Millikin University learn that people remember the negative things seven times more than they remember the positive. Many papers, therefore, report the expressed negatives seven times more than the positives. So, readers may only be able to believe forty-nine times (seven times seven) more negative than positive. The English dictionary even has almost twice as many negative emotional words as positive emotional words to choose from according to Psychology Today.

Even our most permanent court organization records only the negative forevermore.

Our great-great-grandchildren, therefore, will only be able to read the negative about us. We may be sinking ourselves by allowing the super negative to live on and on and on and by not allowing any positive to have even a foot-hold in our community.

Some of us feel the need to balance this negative bias with equal positive. Ray Williams with Psychology Today says that it takes 5-10 positive events to counterbalance one negative event. Atomic Diversity is positively charged diversity.

The plan for a new nucleus is to synchronize nonprofit organizations in a hub for shock waves of free-flowing information, safety awareness, and for promoting super positivity to counter the negativity with equal diversity.

Negative words, reports, & records are sinking us.

Positive words, reports, & records will be a life preserver to keep us afloat for our kids.

A new nucleus is the smartest place for this atomic transformation of our community to happen & to help out the most.

"A community that knows together grows together"-AW

In the old nucleus, Clean Law™ tried for 10 years to get a day in court to prove that scientific law and courtroom "law" are opposite from each other and that this puts science students at risk. "Intellectual diversity in court," says trial scientist Aaron Wemple, "would have been safer for students like me. I learned the viced way that grossly labeling people is how to play the system. But I was taught to find reality so I was misviced."

Undiversified legal practices exaggerate, publish, and record illegal activities forevermore. Whereas diversified legal practices would equally publish and record legal activities forevermore. This is charge diversity.

Undiversified psychology practices teach, diagnose and record non-sanity. Diversified psychology professionals would equally teach, diagnose, and record sane symptoms. This is professional psychology diversity. Can't free patients have both traits?

Clean Law™ is diversified scientific law and scientific psychology. This state-of-the-art practice is ideal for innocent parents with family issues who classically face longer & more dangerous trial duress than quilty criminals do. Maximum public safety is our goal.

Big Step America!

A Universal Deceleration of Human Rights is that everyone has the right to form and to join trade unions for the protection of his (or her) interests. (United Nations)

Starting the Clean Law™ Union (CLU) was no easy decision. First, the state statute doesn't even allow us to do what our trade is. (Which is to equalize positionally challenged people.) Secondly, we want to be socially responsible and limit excessive vertical dividing and horizontal dividing to keep them from growing more & more divided and more & more incompatible, but this goes against their grain too. And thirdly, CLU steps the hardest on the biggest toes!

Sealed the Deal

Mr. Wemple says that, "after losing my children because of inequality and games through 15 years of family court & witnessing parents going through this every day, rejection through 10 years of case work trying to make things fair & honest, and after losing my mobility after 18 years in the union, I went back to school at Millikin one night a week in hopes of continuing to help children. But there were copyright violations going on there so students like me are deprived of our educations without so much as a hearing for siding with science & the EXPRESSED WRITTEN WILLS of authors instead of violating facts & wills."

So, this added the interest of sacrificing to protect the expressed written wills of authors to also helping fact-based people.

"I feel excluded or trapped in wrong hood today every time I try to do what I know is right."-AW

But Why CLU?

Well, many innocent dads of family court ask us, "Why did court and its counselors abuse me?" Many innocent moms of other cases ask us, "Why didn't they ever care about me?" And many children who survived them cry, "Why didn't I ever have my own voice?! It's all my fault!!!"

Perhaps they all should have had an equal voice in the decisions over their life? But only an Autonomous Democracy could do that.

Maybe the scales of undiversified sides are a little bit uneven? I mean, a retired judge even says that this is futile. So, they must need our help to diversify.

When farmers take grain to ADM, those scales are regulated.

When we buy gasoline, those pump interactions are regulated.

When we make food purchases, those taxes are regulated.

It's time to regulate other scales. Can you imagine if gas stations regulated themselves? Aren't our children & future just as important as grain and gasoline?

"Atomic Diversity," within a new information hub (or national lab) fits this new community improvement opportunity.
